

HOUSING IS ELEMENTAL!

The City of San Gabriel will be holding a public hearing to adopt its Housing Element, the plan for meeting the housing needs of the community, and invites you to participate. The Housing Element of the General Plan will be discussed the meeting of the:

San Gabriel Planning Commission

December 14, 2009

6:30 p.m.

San Gabriel City Hall, 425 S. Mission Drive

The Housing Element examines the City's existing housing stock and demographic trends and assesses the future housing needs of San Gabriel's residents, including special-need populations like the elderly, the disabled and female-headed households. The plan identifies vacant and underutilized sites in the city on which new housing could be built. It also looks at constraints that may exist to the production of new housing and how the City can work to remove them. The Housing Element includes a Housing Action Plan that sets forth a wide range of programs proposed by the City to encourage new housing construction for all income levels, preserve existing affordable housing, and comply with state laws regarding zoning for emergency shelters and transitional/supportive housing. The Housing Element is available for review on the City's website, www.san gabrielcity.com and at San Gabriel City Hall. For more information, contact City Planner Mark Gallatin at 626-308-2806, ext. 4623 or Planning Manager Carol Barrett at ext. 4624.

HOUSING IS ELEMENTAL!

The City of San Gabriel will be holding a public hearing to adopt its Housing Element, the plan for meeting the housing needs of the community, and invites you to participate. The Housing Element of the General Plan will be discussed the meeting of the:

San Gabriel City Council

January 5, 2010

7:30 p.m.

San Gabriel City Hall, 425 S. Mission Drive

The Housing Element examines the City's existing housing stock and demographic trends and assesses the future housing needs of San Gabriel's residents, including special-need populations like the elderly, the disabled and female-headed households. The plan identifies vacant and underutilized sites in the city on which new housing could be built. It also looks at constraints that may exist to the production of new housing and how the City can work to remove them. The Housing Element includes a Housing Action Plan that sets forth a wide range of programs proposed by the City to encourage new housing construction for all income levels, preserve existing affordable housing, and comply with state laws regarding zoning for emergency shelters and transitional/supportive housing. The Housing Element is available for review on the City's website, www.san gabrielcity.com and at San Gabriel City Hall. For more information, contact City Planner Mark Gallatin at 626-308-2806, ext. 4623 or Planning Manager Carol Barrett at ext. 4624.

